

Volunteering in their words

Volunteering, in their words

Hi, my name is Nita, and I am actually a member of the Cockburn SES.

Why did I come to Volunteering?

I guess it's all about providing and giving something back to the community.

Every day of life, you might see a storm and somebody in orange and think, maybe this is something that I can do.

So you can make a phone call, and we will then try and work out if that role will suit you if you ring us up.

My role in our unit is administration, so needless to say I have a very strong skill set in that area.

What do I do in the background?

It's all around making sure the equipment works for the team and that they can do their thing out in the field. That we actually do the catering for them as well.

We also offer the opportunity to work with the Cockburn Council.

Why do I do it?

I guess it's the warm and fuzzies feeling that I have actually helped someone.

Thank you to all our Volunteers. Considering volunteering today, contact Cockburn Volunteer Resource Centre <http://www.cockburn.wa.gov.au/Volunteering>
